

Woman's Suffering and Relief.

Those languid, fireless emotions, causing you to feel scarcely able to lift your feet...

I was afflicted with kidney and urinary trouble. After trying all the doctors and patent medicines I could hear of, I used two bottles of Hop Bitters.

And I am perfectly cured. I keep it "All the time" respectfully, B.F. Booth, Salisbury, Tenn.—May 4, 1883.

THE WESTERN LEAGUE.

Omaha will probably enter that Base-Ball Organization.

Mr. Fred. Hay, a representative of the Western League and linked with Mr. T. P. Sullivan, of the Kansas City base-ball club, in a managerial capacity, arrived in this city Thursday to take final steps in the direction of determining the entrance of Omaha into the league.

The question of whether this city shall have a league base-ball club this season is dependent upon one point, that of securing proper grounds.

It is believed that about $750 will secure a lease of the grounds for the coming year, and pay off one of the old incumbrances which will have to be disposed of before full control of the property can be assumed.

It is already negotiating with such men as the Hay brothers, Law Dickerson, formerly of the Alleghenys, and more recently of St. Louis, and several other ball players of first-class record.

IS IT CONSTITUTIONAL?

The Question Over Which Treasurer Rush and Gen. Cowin Are Puzzling.

County Treasurer Rush is just at present in a situation which favors slightly of a dilemma.

Sometimes ago, when the people throughout the state were clamoring for the repeal of the law providing for the payment of a five per cent fine on delinquent taxes, that is, those not paid before the first of January, his cloven hoofed majesty, Mr. Church Howe, forseeing for himself a rich spread of popular and enthusiastic gratitude, introduced a bill into the senate at once, which provided for the repeal of the statute.

Mr. Rush has his doubts about the constitutionality of the measure and has submitted the matter to County Attorney Cowin, who will shortly render his decision.

Mr. Rush says that the whole amount of delinquent fines paid so far is only $300, and of trifling consequence. Still he does not feel in a position to repay the fine, for it is well known that if he were to oblige the law and it should be subsequently declared illegal, the county commissioners could proceed against him or his bondsmen for the amount which he had refunded.

As soon as Gen. Cowin sheds the light of the law upon the dark point, Mr. Rush will be ready to meet the clamorous delinquents and will advise them of the decision through the columns of the local press.

A HEBREW FEAST.

How the Jewish Passover is to be Celebrated.

The feast of the passover celebrated by all adherents of the Hebrew religion, will begin on the evening of the 30th inst. (the 15th of Nisan) and will continue until the eve of April 6, which is known as the Holy day, no leaven being allowed in Hebrew homes.

Last evening Rabbi Harfield preached at the Temple on "The Great Sabbath." This morning Master Joe Oberfelder, eldest son of the president of the congregation, will be confirmed, on which occasion there will be an "Address to the Confirmation." Monday evening at 6:30 there will be a concert in "The Cedar," and Tuesday morning on "A Cry From the Land of the Dead."

"Going to See Father." Yesterday morning occurred one of those little incidents that often are fore-runners of fame for the party interested. In Greenwood, Iowa, lives a poor woman with two young children. She is very poor but industrious and trying to rear her little ones as they should be, hoping that a bright day will ere long break upon the dark night that has so long encompassed her and them.

Away off in Oregon there is a husband and a father, who left them to seek a fortune and a home to which he might invite them to pass their life in comfort. He has not prospered yet, and a letter to the anxious wife and mother told of his trials, tribulations and disappointments, and hopes for better things yet.

Yesterday a little boy boarded the west-bound Union Pacific train with a ticket to Huntington, Oregon, and a letter of recommendation that the bearer, little "Harry," aged 11 years, be assisted on his route to his father, who had written that the fishing season would soon open, and work be procurable. The little fellow's eyes brightened as he fixed himself in the seat, the kind conductor pointed out to him, and in response to a question as to his purpose, said: "I am going to Oregon to help father catch fish, to get money to send to mother so that she and little sister may come out to help father too." Harry is a sprightly little fellow, full of life and buoyant energy. Who knows but this happy little party may be the part of the Union Pacific railroad company may be the means not only of providing for a worthy family, but giving the United States a president! Garfield was a canal boy; Andy Johnson a tailor's apprentice; and yet the fane of each of these will go thundering down the centuries.

State vs. John F. Behm—Bribery. Continued. Bond in $500 for appearance.

State vs. Charles Kaufman—Bribery. Continued. Bond in $500 for appearance.

Yesterday, Alfred Booth, the oyster man, filed a petition in this court praying for a judgment and foreclosure of a mortgage for $4,875, against D. B. Beemer, of Omaha; also for a receiver to be appointed with the usual powers of receivers; all of which is supported by affidavits for the purposes of the suit.

PEANUTS.

A Source of Wealth that Nebraska Farmers do not Appreciate.

A reporter of the Bee met with a gentleman from Virginia yesterday and conversation turned upon the extent to which that country has recovered from the blighting results of war and political mismanagement.

Feeling an interest in the subject, inquiry developed these facts: Peanuts grow best on light loamy soil. They require about six months from the sowing to the harvest in order to mature.

The rows are four feet apart one way and two and a half or three the other way; some farmers plant them four feet each way. The greatest care is necessary to get good seed, for the cultivation is a small matter.

Upon one acre of land an average of 125 or 150 bushels ought to be grown annually. In the eastern states peas average $2 per bushel. Here it would not be so expensive, because the absence of the enemy of peanuts—wire grass—renders so frequent working unnecessary, and plowing can be substituted for hoeing, which "wire" grass makes indispensable.

This is no exaggerated statement; the writer has seen hundreds of thousands of bushels of these nuts grown. Their sale made Norfolk during 1866 '72, and fed and clothed impoverished eastern Virginia and North Carolina, as the statistics of those years show.

Scores of men who had been rich slave-owners with broad acres cut and torn by military movements, were then bankrupt. These men left their plantations on the parts of them fit for cultivation, on shares and put peanuts to the crop.

The experiment costs but little. The cultivation will be any here in Nebraska, and the market good as the "olive oil," the machine oil and many other oils are made chiefly from peanuts, and the vines are worth three times as much as hay for horses and stock generally to feed on, provided they are gathered before they are bitten by frost.

THE EMIGRATION STATISTICS OF IRELAND FOR 1884 show that the emigrants who left Ireland last year were 76,043, a decrease of 32,873 as compared with 1883; the number males being 38,177, or 17,126 less than in the previous year, and of females, 37,866, a decrease of 15,657.
